2/9/2021

Homebuilder's dedicated focus on leading employment practices earns company a place on 2021 list.

LOS ANGELES--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- KB Home (NYSE: KBH) has been named to Forbes' 2021 list of America's Best Midsize Employers, the only national homebuilder to receive this distinction. This recognition is presented by Forbes and Statista, a leading provider of market and consumer data, and can be viewed on Forbes' website.

"We're honored to be named by Forbes as one of America's Best Midsize Employers in recognition of our comprehensive approach to cultivating a workplace that is focused on the growth and development of our employees," said Jeffrey Mezger, KB Home's Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer. "We are proud to be the only national homebuilder to make this distinguished list. This distinction is testament to our supportive and inclusive culture that has been a core part of our business for over 60 years. At KB Home, we appreciate and value our employees' dedication and passion for advancing our vision to be the most customer-obsessed homebuilder in the world."

Forbes' list of America's Best Employers has been published in partnership with Statista, a market research company, since 2015. The list identifies companies liked best by employees based on an anonymous survey of 50,000 Americans. Respondents are asked detailed questions about the working conditions of their company and how likely they are to recommend their employer to others on a scale of zero to ten. The final list ranks a total of 1,000 companies: 500 large (over 5,000 employees) and 500 midsize (1,000 to 5,000 employees).
