12/16/2022

The ranking developed by the Drucker Institute identifies the best-managed U.S. companies.

LOS ANGELES--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- KB Home (NYSE: KBH), one of the largest and most recognized homebuilders in the U.S., has been named to The Wall Street Journal's (WSJ) 2022 Management Top 250 list, the only national homebuilder to make the list two years in a row. The Management Top 250 ranking identifies the most effectively managed U.S. companies as evaluated by the Drucker Institute across five dimensions: customer satisfaction, employee engagement and development, innovation, social responsibility and financial strength.

"We're honored to again be named to The Wall Street Journal's Management Top 250 list, the only national homebuilder to receive this distinction two years in a row," said Jeffrey Mezger, KB Home's Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer. "This recognition underscores our long-standing and ongoing commitment to delivering superior customer satisfaction, creating a culture of excellence, driving innovation in sustainability and promoting social responsibility to positively impact our stakeholders and deliver long-term value."

The Management Top 250 includes the top U.S. companies out of 902 publicly traded companies included in a Drucker Institute study. The study is based on an analysis of 34 data inputs provided by 14 third-party sources. The five areas are weighted to calculate a score that forms the basis of the ranking.

In the past year KB Home was also named to Fortune's List of the World's Most Admired Companies, Newsweek's list of America's Most Responsible Companies and Forbes' list of America's Best Midsize Employers.
